A NUMBER of exchanges speaking of the fellow Hover, who has visited several North Carolina towns claiming to represent the Knights of Labor concerning him assayed to strengthen their remarks by adding something to the effect that the individual in ques tion wore "seedy clothes," and was not over presentable. THE SENTINEL does not espouse the cause of this manHover, but we beg to remind our esteemed contemporaries that dudish clothes and faultless apparal are not always to be taken as the best of indications as to a man's honesty of purpose. Because a man has "seedy clothes" is no reason why there is not an honest heart beneath them and frequently more than ordinary genius

THE Hickory Press calls the Raleigh News-Observer's attention to its error in publishing the statement that the county of Stanly was named after EDWARD R. STANLEY, who was once a prominent politiciau in North Carolina. The Press says the county was formed in 1841 when EDWARD STANLEY was a young man about thiety years old. It was after that time that he became very prominent as a politician. The county was nam-ed after John Stanly, of New Berne a relative of EDWARD STANLY, and a much older man -

Winston's railroad future has un dergone quite a change recently, now as it is decided that the Roanoke & Southern is to pass through the Twin City and that a probability exists as to the extension of the Fayetteville & Winston road, and the building of a short line between here and Rural Hall or Walnut Cove on the C. A New Literary Venture.

From the New Berne Journal. We learn that the Weekly Sentinel will commence in the first week in May, the publiation of a work of fiction of MissEleanor Jone of this city. Miss Jones is an amiable, popular and gifted young lady, and has already won considerable reputation as a writer. Her long-est story, "Miss Littlejohn," published a year or wo ago, was spoken of in complimentary terms by many of our most prominent and cultivated citizens. We wish her a large measure of success in the literary field, especially because she is a New Berne lady, and what ever reflects credit upon her, will bring honor to her native town.

FOREVER YOUNG. The wild world hastens on its way;
The gray-haired century nears its close;
Its sorrow deepens day by day;
The summer blush forsakes the rose.
But, darling, while your voice I hear,
And while your dark brown eyes I see,
Sad months and sunless seasons drear,
Are all the same, all glad to me.
Despair can never reach me.

Despair can never reach me. While your soft hand I hold; While your eyes love and teach me, I never shall grow old!

They say that love forsakes the old,
That passion pales and fades away;
That even love's bright locks of gold
Must less their charms and change to
But darling while your heart is mine,
And while I feel that you are true,
For me the skies will ever shine
With summer light and tenderest blue.
Yes, let old age deride me!
I scorn his mocking tongue,
Dear love, with you beside me,
I am forever young!

I am a native of England, and while I was in that country I contracted a terrible blood poison, and for two years was under treatment as an out-door patient at Nottingham Hospital, England, but was not cured. I suffered the most agonizing pains in my bones, and was covered with sores all over my body and limbs. I had vertigo and deafness, with partial loss of sight, severe pains in my head and eyes, etc., which nearly ran me cracy. I lost all hope in that country, and sailed for America, and was treated at Hosevelt in this city, as well as by a prominent physician in New York having no connection with the hospitals.

I saw the advertisement of Swift's Specific, and I determined to give it a trial as a last resort. I had given up all hope of being cured, as I had gone through the hands of the best medical men in Nottingham and New York. I took six bottles S. S. S. and I can say with great joy that ther have cured me entirely. I am as sound and well as I ever was in my life.

Blood

Is the life, and he who remembers it. But in March of last year (1884), I contracted blood poison, and being in savanah, Ga., at the time. I went into the hospital there for treatment I suffered very much firom rheumatism at the same time. I did not get well under the treatment there, nor was I cured by any of the usual means. I have now taken seven bottles of Swift's Specific and am sound and well. It drove the poison out torough boils on the skin, Dan Leary.
